From ashes to gold, quest for livelihood at a Varanasi ghat

Oliver Fredrick

oliver.fredrick@hindustantimes.com

VARANASI: The eternal cycle of life, death and belief in rebirth is punctuated by a gold quest among ashes of the departed at Manikarnika Ghat, the holiest and biggest cremation ground on the banks of the Ganga in Uttar Pradesh's Varanasi.

On a typical day, bodies draped in red and golden shimmering clothes start arriving from morning. As per the local tradition in Kashi, some bodies are accompanied by drummers, while a few arrive with local bands.

On one side, people are seen busy purchasing logs for the pyre. Just a few yards away is a group of people, bare-chested and armed with a shallow pan, a stack charcoal and ashes. They can be seen swirling the pan around gradually in the river water, observing the remains closely. This cumbersome act lasts for some six to seven hours a day. It yields gold worth ₹10,000 to ₹25,000 a day to every group member. Those engaged in the act are the people of the Dom community, corpse burners who try to find gold by washing away the ashes and remains of the funeral pyre in the river water. Doms belong to the Dalit community.

Gold from the dead

Gold is one of the most important elements among the cremation samagri (material), locals said, adding that the history of Doms' quest is said to be as old as that of Varanasi.

In Hindu religion, there is a belief that putting a piece of gold into the mouth, nostrils or ears of the deceased at the time of cremation protects the soul as it passes over and enables it to get closer to god, says Kamal Dev Pandey, a priest who carries out last rites at the ghat.

"This is why gold is also considered the final sanskar (custom) and ensures that the soul of the person is not stuck on earth (bhutlok) or the region of the dead (bhryalok)."

People of the Dom community try to find gold by washing away ashes and pyre remains in a river.

Other than such beliefs, people say there are some well-off families who don't bother about taking out ornaments, including nose pins, ear rings and finger rings, from the body. There are also some families that put in a sizable amount of gold in the mouth of the dead, nose and ear at the time of cremation.

The tradition has become a means of livelihood for some 300 people belonging to the Dom community residing on the cremation ghat of Varanasi.

"Cremation is the only thing that we can do and which we have been doing since ages. It is the only source of income for us," says Satyadev Chaudhary, 45, who is tired of his job, and is now looking forward to different job opportunities for his children. "Our family depends on the income from the cremation, but it is what we get from family members while performing last rites, or what we get in the form of gold through the ashes."

Their day at the ghat begins at around 6am, when a senior member of the Dom community, often referred to as Dom raja, takes charge of cremation. People from the community said it is like appointing a day officer, who is selected on the basis of a cycle through which every member from the community gets a chance to be an in-charge. "Once change is taken, the entire activity at the ghat is governed by that person, be it carrying out cremation or collecting ashes and other remains from the pyre," says Pawan Chaudhary, another member of the Dom community.

After a body is brought to the cremation ground, it is cremated and the ash (ashes and some charred bones) are collected in an earthen urn, he says. The family of the dead collects the ash on the third day after the cremation, while the remains of the pyre are kept aside by the in-charge, he adds.

Panning for gold

Then, the quest for searching gold begins. The leftover ashes, charcoal and other remains are taken to the banks of the Ganga, where a group of people watched by the in-charge begins the process of looking for gold.

The method is called gold panning. The gravel and remains from the pyre are scooped on a shallow utensil and then panned in the river water, allowing the less weighty materials to spill out of the pan, leaving behind heavy metals like gold, says Satyadev Chaudhary, who was the cremation in-charge at the ghat on Friday. In his 35 years on the job as a corpse burner, he said he has seen many moments where these hunting for gold get a sizable amount of the yellow metal.

CONG CHIEF ELECTION

the fray after the withdrawal of nominations, the name of the president will be declared on October 8, the party's Central Election Authority chairman Madhusudan Mistry said after the meeting of the CWC, the party's highest decision-making body. The date of notification of the election is September 22 and candidates can file their nominations between September 24 and 30.

The last date of withdrawal of application will be October 8. It was possible the shortest CWC meet in the recent past, called to only approve the election dates, top "G23" leader Anand Sharma raised questions on whether due process was being followed in the Congress's organisational election. Sharma, who recently resigned as the chairman of the party's steering committee for Himachal Pradesh, said he received several complaints that no meetings were held to elect delegates for the party's presidential poll, according to a member, who asked not to be named.

"Sharma questioned if meetings to elect delegates at block and district levels were held as he got information that such meetings were irregular. He said that if this has happened, it violates the sanctity of the election, and also suggesting that many state units of the party have not received the delegates list," the CWC member said.

The list of delegates is crucial for the Congress president election as they will vote in the election. If the list of delegates is skewed in favour of the party's ruling establishment, a rival candidate could face an unfair contest, another functionary said. As Sharma raised concern about the delegate list, Sonia Gandhi, who chaired the meeting virtually, asked Mistry to respond. Mistry maintained that if there is a contest, all candidates would be able to access the list of delegates, the functionary said. Sonia Gandhi, who is travelling abroad for medical check-up, was unable to attend the meeting.

At the press conference later, Mistry said that those who raised these questions have gone through the same process... "that's why I don't want to comment much about that."

The CWC meeting was held two days after party stalwart Azad resigned and criticised Rahul Gandhi for promoting his "coterie" and demolishing his "sultanic" mechanisms. While a section of the party was keen on raising issues flagged by Azad, a senior leader said that at the beginning of the meeting, all CWC members were told that only the poll schedule will be discussed. A Congress leader, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that Rahul Gandhi and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra did not say anything during the meeting. Rajya Sabha leader Pramod Tiwari was the first to welcome the schedule. The leader added that unlike the past meeting of the CWC, no one demanded that Rahul Gandhi be made the next president.

A host of leaders including KC Venugopal and Abhishek Singhvi wished Sonia Gandhi good health during the meeting. "The Congress Working Committee meet today under the chairmanship of Congress president Sonia Gandhi. It considered and approved the final schedule given by our CEA chairman Madhusudan Mistry. As per our procedure, CP election will be held in the state headquarters," Venugopal said. Another senior leader said that the poll schedule was passed in unanimity. "We were asked to raise our hands. Everyone supported the poll plan."

"Date of Election (3: October 17th, 2022 (Monday) 10am to 4pm. Date of Counting and Declaration of Result (if needed): October 19th, 2022 (Wednesday) 10am onwards," announced a Congress press release.

The party last saw an election for the post in November 2020. Sonia Gandhi is the longest-serving party president and has been at the helm since 1998, barring the two years between 2017 and 2019 when Rahul Gandhi was in charge.

INFANTRY UPGRADE

supported by the firepower of its integral combat vehicles.

Forming the core of the defence acquisition strategy, the plan — dovetailed with the Atmanirbhar Bharat (self-reliant India) strategy — is the replacement of the BMP-1s with 480 locally developed futuristic infantry combat vehicles (ICVs) for which government approval has already been granted. The contract, which also asked not to be identified.

"The army will seek the defence acquisition council's approval for the purchase of the ICVs at the earliest. We are simultaneously pursuing modernisation plans for tracked and wheeled vehicles. A few approvals have already come," the second official added.

The defence acquisition council (DAC), chaired by the defence minister, is India's apex weapons procurement body, and under the country's defence procurement rules, its AoN is the first step towards buying or developing military hardware.

The army has already secured approvals for the Nag missile system (NAMIS) for reconnaissance and support battalions (3 Nag missile carriers and 293 missiles), 177 infantry combat vehicles (command), and 105 wheeled armoured fighting vehicles to replace Soviet-origin BRDM reconnaissance vehicles and 1080 anti-tank guided missiles, said a third official on the condition of anonymity.

Also on the mechanised infantry's wish list are wheeled infantry combat vehicles for standard battalions and light armoured multi-purpose vehicles with enhanced mobility and protection for reconnaissance stations that currently use the Maruti Gypsy.

The modernisation drive will enhance the mechanised infantry's mobility and effectiveness, and also boost India's capabilities along the northern borders with China, said former Western Army commander Lieutenant General RP Singh (retd).

"Injecting contemporary technologies at a swift pace will help exploit the capabilities of a man-machine combination... otherwise the arm is just a battle taxi. Even Pakistan is upgrading its mechanised forces. We can't be left behind," Singh added.

"A three cut capability-based modernisation approach is being pursued with the acquisition of contemporary, adaptable and niche technology, which is interoperable with other combat arms. The modernisation drive is completely in sync with the Atmanirbhar Bharat initiative," the third official said.

Capability enhancement of existing military hardware with upgrades for night fighting, accuracy and BMS systems forms an important element of the modernisation effort.

"Enhanced night fighting capability is a top priority. The focus is on a comprehensive solution for the gunner main sight, commander panoramic sight, fire control system, automatic target tracker and laser range finder. The new gear will enhance the night vision capability of the driver and commander too," said a fourth official.

Enhancing fire power of mechanised infantry units is covered under the plan, and is a work in progress.

This is being done through third-generation fire-and-forget anti-tank guided missiles, counter-launched laser munition systems integrated on the BMP-II chassis, anti-drone capability, and integrated surveillance and targeting systems, the officials said.

"ISR capability is being strengthened with mini-unmanned aerial vehicles, see-through armour for better situational awareness, autonomous combat vehicles and artificial intelligence-based integrated surveillance, detection and engagement systems," said the first official.

"Sixth-generation forces — the mechanised infantry and armoured corps — are also inducting swarm drone systems capable of carrying out offensive missions in enemy territory with scores of drones working in formations to identify, encircle and strike targets.

एनएसयूटी : छात्राओं को अतिरिक्त 10 फीसदी सीटों पर मिलाया दाखिला

बोर्ड की आज होने वाली बैठक में लग सकती है अंतिम मुहर

किशन कुमार

नई दिल्ली। नेताजी सुभाष यूनिवर्सिटी ऑफ टेक्नोलॉजी (एनएसयूटी) में नए शैक्षणिक वर्ष में दाखिला लेने की योजना बना रही छात्राओं के लिए अच्छी खबर है। विश्वविद्यालय प्रशासन नए सत्र में छात्राओं के सीट कोंटे में 10 फीसदी की बढ़ोतरी करने का रहा है। इससे छात्राओं की 350 अतिरिक्त सीटों की नई व्यवस्था लागू हो जाएगी। इस संबंध में सोमवार को होने वाली बैठक में निर्णय पर अंतिम मुहर लगेगी।

नए प्रस्ताव से 350 अतिरिक्त सीटों पर छात्राओं के लिए प्रवेश की मौका

दिल्ली के पांच तकनीकी विश्वविद्यालयों में इंजीनियरिंग में दाखिले के लिए अगले माह से जैक की काउंसिलिंग शुरू होने वाली है। ऐसे में काउंसिलिंग शुरू होने से पहले छात्राओं के कोंटे में 10 फीसदी सीटें बढ़ाने का प्रस्ताव है। इसे लेकर सोमवार को होने वाली बोर्ड की बैठक में निर्णय लिया जाएगा।

उम्मीद है कि बोर्ड के वरिष्ठ अधिकारी इस प्रस्ताव पर मुहर लगा देंगे। इसके बाद नए सत्र से

अतिरिक्त सीटों पर छात्राओं को दाखिला मिल सकेगा। अभी कुल 1876 सीटों पर दाखिले का अवसर : विश्वविद्यालय के एक अधिकारी ने कहा कि इंजीनियरिंग में छात्राओं से ज्यादा छात्र प्रवेश लेते हैं। ऐसे में एनएसयूटी में भी छात्राओं से ज्यादा छात्रों की संख्या है। इसको देखते हुए विश्वविद्यालय में छात्र-छात्रा का अनुपात बराबर करने के लिए विश्वविद्यालय अतिरिक्त सीटों को बढ़ा रहा है। भविष्य में भी सीटों को बढ़ाने को लेकर विश्वविद्यालय फैसला लेगा, जिससे अधिक से अधिक छात्राएं विश्वविद्यालय में दाखिला ले सकें।

लड़कियों का अनुपात बराबर करने का प्रयास

दखिला लेने से चूक जाती थीं। ऐसे में अब अधिक संख्या में छात्राओं को दाखिला मिल सकेगा। बता दें कि यहाँ 85 फीसदी सीटें दिल्ली व 15 फीसदी सीटें बाहरी छात्रों के लिए आरक्षित हैं।

डीयू : बैकलॉग पदों को भरने की मांग

नई दिल्ली। फोरम ऑफ एकेडेमिक्स फॉर सोशल जस्टिस ने दिल्ली विश्वविद्यालय में आरक्षण व रोस्टर को लेकर संसदीय समिति को रिपोर्ट लागू नहीं करने का आरोप लगाया है। फोरम का कहना है कि संसदीय समिति ने डीय में शिक्कों का 4500 पदों का बैकलॉग पाया और रोस्टर को लेकर अनेक विमर्शपूर्ण पदों थे। इसके अतिरिक्त तीन कलेजों में रोस्टर को नियमानुसार लागू नहीं किया गया था। ड्यूरी
